Interns for a Sustainable Future

BSR's Interns for a Sustainable Future Program provides master's-level students with paid summer internships to work alongside BSR experts to integrate sustainability into business strategies. By working directly with BSR member companies, you will have the opportunity to put your education into practice.

At BSR, our mission is clear: We work with business to create a just and sustainable world. Our vision includes a commitment to teaching, engaging, and developing future leaders.

Successful program participants will:

- » Have a passion for global sustainability issues.
- » Deliver excellent internal and external client services.
- » Thrive in a fast-paced, global working environment.
- » Apply interdisciplinary thinking to a variety of projects across different industries.
- » Be committed to BSR's core values of leadership, respect, and integrity.

“One of the best things about my internship with BSR was the opportunity to work on projects in almost any industry and on almost any sustainability/CSR-related topic. This allowed me to build my experience in a very targeted way, and to have an interesting and diverse set of summer projects.”

—Corinna Kester, MBA Student, Class of 2012, Haas School of Business, University of California, Berkeley
