

2026 Climate and Nature Advisory Services and Engagement Opportunities

ADVISORY SERVICES

Taking an integrated approach to climate and nature—with people at the core—can help your company navigate disruption and uncertainty, foster innovation, and capture the opportunities offered by a more just and sustainable economic system. BSR’s climate and nature advisory services help companies advance their business goals and build long-term resilience through:

- Climate and nature risk assessments
- Transition plans
- Climate adaptation planning
- Futures, scenarios and foresight
- Environmental impacts of AI assessments and strategy
- Environmental and social strategy alignment

CLIMATE AND NATURE WORKING GROUP

Launched in 2025 to support members in integrating their climate, nature, and social strategies, the 2026 Working Group is a cross-industry opportunity for companies to gain practical insights from experts and peers on how to navigate three proposed areas:

- AI, Digital Tools, and Climate and Nature
- Nature for Climate Mitigation and Adaptation
- Climate and Nature Value Chains

SETTING NEXT GENERATION CLIMATE TARGETS ROUNDTABLE

As many companies reach the end of their first climate target cycle with mixed results, and the voluntary standards landscape continues to evolve significantly in 2026, this cross-sector roundtable will convene sustainability and climate experts in closed-door meetings to exchange insights, build capacity, and co-develop approaches for designing the next generation of credible, pragmatic climate targets.
