CiYuan Program:
How Corporate-NGO Partnertships Can Drive Innovation in Social Development

Margaret Coady
Director, CECP
Committee Encouraging Corporate Philanthropy

Who We Are
- The only international forum of business CEOs and chairpersons with an agenda exclusively focused on corporate philanthropy.

What We Believe
- Philanthropy is a long-term investment
- Executive leadership is essential
- Corporations have unique resources

Who is Engaged
- Over 175 CEOs and Chairpersons
- Companies from each industry sector
- Companies represent over 40% of all corporate giving in the United States

What We Do
- Global Leaders conferences
  - CEOs
  - Corporate Giving Professionals
- Peer Benchmarking
- Excellence Awards
- Research and Thought Leadership
- Media Opportunities

“At CECP, we strive to engage a community of like-minded executives to advance both the social and business value of corporate philanthropy.”
- Terry McGraw, CECP Chairman
Corporate Philanthropy – CECP’s Latest Research

Shaping the Future: Pathways to 2020

Research Questions
- What will the next decade look like, and what are the implications for corporate involvement in solving social issues?
- How can corporations position themselves now to maximize the profitability and societal impact?

Information Sources
- In-depth interviews with leading corporate CEOs
- Live event polling at CEO conferences
- Original research conducted by McKinsey economists
- Interviews with thought leaders from the nonprofit, academic, and government communities.
McKinsey: Five Forces Shaping the Next Decade

The Great Rebalancing
- Emerging markets gaining larger share of global GDP
- Growth of a multipolar global economy

The Productivity Imperative
- Economic growth in developed economies increasingly dependent on productivity gains
- Insufficient supply of highly trained talent for rising global demand

The Global Grid
- Increasing interconnection of markets, trade, and technology

Pricing the Planet
- Significant increase in resource demand as emerging markets surge
- Growing environmental pressures on business and society

The Market State
- Growing need of states to compete for economic growth and innovation
- Competition to attract business activity

Source: McKinsey & Company
CEO Poll Question: Challenges to Action

What is the biggest barrier your company faces today in preparing to address the oncoming social problems that are important to your business?

- Overwhelming complexity of social problems: 47%
- Difficulty collaborating and/or aligning with our company’s stakeholders: 34%
- We lack the organizational structure/capacity to engage effectively: 16%
- We cannot commit to an issue long enough to have a meaningful impact: 3%
- Shareholder pressure prevents us from getting too involved: 0%

SOURCE: CECP Board of Boards CEO Conference Series 2010
What do you think is the appropriate role of a company in solving a social problem that is important to its business?

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Role</th>
<th>Percentage</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Drive the solution: take leadership and ownership over getting results</td>
<td>50%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Be part of the solution: collaborate in problem-solving without seeking a leadership role</td>
<td>42%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fund the solution: primarily contribute cash / resources</td>
<td>6%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Invest pragmatically: only address a social problem if it connects directly to shareholder value</td>
<td>3%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Do not engage: business should have a negligible role in solving social problems</td>
<td>0%</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

SOURCE: CECP Board of Boards CEO Conference Series 2010
“We’re big, we’re powerful, we have scale, we can make a difference not only in every community that we’re in, but the world.”
— Jim Skinner, Vice Chairman and CEO, McDonald’s

“The difference between driving the solution and being part of it is wanting to enable the community instead of the company being the leader. This creates a sustainable environment.”
— Klaus Kleinfeld, President and CEO, Alcoa

“More will be expected from market leaders and globally successful companies. Conversely, those that are most involved will also be more successful. This may be an upward spiral in which the more successful the company, the more will be expected of them, and the more successful they will be.”
— Mike Duke, President and CEO, Walmart
CEO Poll Question: Choosing Partners

Who is it most important for your company to collaborate with in solving social problems important to your business?

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Collaboration Type</th>
<th>Percentage</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Companies in my industry/supply chain</td>
<td>33%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Nonprofits</td>
<td>33%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Companies outside my industry/supply chain</td>
<td>17%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Governments</td>
<td>9%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Multilateral Institutions</td>
<td>4%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Others (private foundations, universities, etc.)</td>
<td>4%</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

SOURCE: CECP Board of Boards CEO Conference Series 2010
CEO Interviews: What Role to Play?

“We all have to contribute to sustainable solutions in all of these areas. Not any one group that can do it. It has to be a collaboration of people that will sit around a table and be committed to common objectives and a long term vision. You cannot assume that everyone else will address the problem, and that you do not have to engage."
— Bill Weldon, Chairman and CEO, Johnson & Johnson

“We’re collaborating with competitors on some of things, but mostly we’re collaborating with non-profits around the world who on the ground and able to get things up and running. We give them a little bit of money and a little bit of technology and off they go.”
— Ken Powell, Chairman and CEO, General Mills

SOURCE: CECP and McKinsey Interviews, 2010
New Collaborative Models for Innovation

PARTNERS
- Industry, cross-industry, or sub-industry groups
- Foundations (community, family, private)
- NGOs
- Think Tanks
- Governments
- Multilateral banks
- Sovereign wealth funds
- Universities
- Convening Bodies (CGI, Davos)

STRUCTURES
- Cross-industry partnerships
- Public-private partnerships
- Purchasing consortia
- Joint ventures
- Open-source consortia
- Venture capital models
- Voluntary convenings
- Research collaborations
- Networks

ACTIVITIES
- Pool financial resources
- Co-develop products/services
- Co-invest in infrastructure
- Create consortia for sharing knowledge
- Create or adopt voluntary industry standards
- Advocate for regulation and policy change
- Educate public
- Influence key stakeholders

Source: McKinsey & Company
Clear mission and objectives
- Address root causes of an issue
- Specific objectives
- Mission that is compelling to all partners

Performance management
Partners work together to:
- Establish concrete goals and milestones
- Measure progress with metrics
- Hold each other accountable
- Communicate with stakeholders

Motivated partners
Partners are:
- Credible, and motivated by self-interest
- Contribute unique capabilities
- Able to drive decisions
- Sufficiently aligned to act

Effective governance
- Appropriate body of partners and structure to solve the problem
- Clearly defined organizational structure and decision rights
- Ability to act in a timely fashion

Meaningful activities
- Expectations and roles for each partner clearly defined
- Activities leverage partner resources and competencies

SOURCE: McKinsey analysis
Companies and NGOs: Examples of Unique Assets

Companies

Tangible Assets
- Cash
- Products
- Facilities
- Technology and logistics infrastructure
- Leadership development frameworks

Intangible Assets
- Can absorb risks and conduct pilot projects
- Can influence those in supply chain
- Expertise in negotiation, project management, legal issues, communications, etc.

NGOs

Tangible Assets
- Local offices
- Service infrastructure
- Trained staff
- Volunteers

Intangible Assets
- Subject-matter expertise
- Credibility
- Knowledge of community needs and customs
- Relationships with relevant leaders
- Ability to mobilize others
- Access to media
Case Study: Nestlé's Shared Value Approach

Nestle is the world’s largest milk company, making high-quality supply crucial… but they cannot go it alone.

Collaboration between Nestle, government, and NGO partners includes:
• Local collection, storage and transportation facilities
• Training provided by Nestlé agronomists and field technicians
• A range of quality control systems and financial support through microfinance loans
• Local employment opportunities at our factories.