How We Work

BSR's team of experts delivers a range of services to help improve social, environmental, and economic performance in the supply chain.

We think of a sustainable supply chain as a network of transactions and relationships that creates long-term value for all involved stakeholders. Drawing upon our deep experience across multiple industries and regions, we help companies develop strategic approaches, engage with suppliers, and build meaningful collaborations.

Expertise

- Development and review of leading strategies and policies
- Integration of sustainability into procurement
- Creation and implementation of innovative supplier engagement and training
- Leadership and facilitation of collaborative programs that address key issues in sourcing countries

Business Benefits

- Proactively manage risk by developing a deep understanding of a company's complex global supply chain and its efficiency and effectiveness
- Strengthen the organization's license to operate and increase credibility through enhanced stakeholder and supplier relationships
- Drive long-term change by increasing supplier ownership of working conditions and environmental performance in their workplaces
- Have a clear, effective response to external pressures, such as reducing a company's exposure to costly shareholder resolutions, activist campaigns, and negative media
- Identify opportunities for supply chain innovation and negative media
